Abraham was very old. His son Isaac wasn't a baby anymore. Isaac was now a grown man!

It was time for Isaac to be married. Abraham told his helper, Eliezer (ehl-ee-EE-zuhr), "Go to the land where my family lives. Find a good wife for Isaac."

Eliezer was glad to help Abraham and Isaac. He traveled a long, long way. He and his camels were tired and thirsty. So Eliezer stopped his camels by a well of water.

Eliezer climbed down from his camel and prayed, "Dear God, please help me find a kind wife for Isaac."

Just then a young woman named Rebekah came to the well. She was carrying a water jar.

"May I have a drink of your water?" Eliezer asked her.

"Yes," said Rebekah. She lowered her jar down, down into the well.

She gave Eliezer a drink. While he was drinking, Rebekah said, "I will also give water to your camels."

What a kind woman Rebekah was! Eliezer thanked her for the water. Then he went to meet her family. He gave them many gifts from Abraham and Isaac and asked if Rebekah would go with him to marry Isaac. Rebekah said, "Yes."

Eliezer prayed and thanked God for helping him find a kind woman to be Isaac's wife. The next day, Eliezer and Rebekah started on the long trip back to Isaac's home.
